THE 21st DAY OF THE MONTH OF FEBRUARY COMMEMORATION OF OUR VENERABLE FATHER TIMOTHY OF SYMBOLA IN BITHYNIA

COMMEMORATION OF OUR FATHER AMONG THE SAINTS EUSTACE, ARCHBISHOP OF ANTIOCH AT VESPERS

On "Lord, I have cried ...," 6 Stichera: 3 Stichera of the venerable one, in Tone VIII, Spec. Mel.: "O most glorious wonder ...":

- O divinely wise father Timothy, * by great, abstinence * and frequent prayer * thou didst utterly destroy * the movements of the passions; * and receiving the grace of dispassion, * thou wast shown to be a receptacle of the divine Spirit. * Wherefore, as alive even after death, O divinely blessed one,  thou dost ever drive away evil spirits.
- O divinely wise father Timothy, * thou wast a true emulator of Abraham, * everywhere healing * those who have recourse unto thee. * In thy pangs thou didst acquire the strength of Job; * and, possessing the meekness of David, * on earth thou didst live a life equal to that of the angels, * receiving thine ultimate desire,  and praying on behalf of us all.
- O divinely wise father Timothy, * a model of chastity, an example of abstinence, * an image of piety, * and a wellspring of compunction, * an unshakable foundation of Orthodoxy, * an ever-flowing stream of healings, * a never-setting sun, a child of divine grace, * and the adornment of monastics wast thou shown to be,  O most honored one.

And 3 Stichera of the holy hierarch, in the same Tone, Spec. Mel.: "What shall we call you ...":

Possessed of a heavenly life, * thou wast truly ordained by God * to serve as a priest, * and with a pure mind didst offer up services unto Him. * Though enduring misfortunes and suffering, O blessed one, * for the sake of thy divine preaching * and steadfast truth, * which was confirmed by thy words,  thou didst not cease from denouncing the mindless ones.

With the word of thy sacred discourse * thou didst manifestly set afire the tinder * of the blasphemy of the impious Arius, * who did not comprehend that the Father and the Son * are called equal in honor by nature, * O most sacred Eustace; * and thou didst enlighten the hearts of the faithful * and didst keep with truth  those who with faith celebrate thy memory.

Wielding the staff of thy words, * O most sacred shepherd, * thou didst preserve * the rational flock of God unharmed * from all manner of wolves. * Wherefore, the good Shepherd * hath led thee into the fold of heaven, * where the souls of the elect and righteous fathers are,  O God-bearing and most blessed Eustace.

Glory ..., Both now ..., Theotokion, in the same tone and melody:

Whom hast thou emulated, O wretched soul, * who in no wise dost rouse thyself to repentance * nor fearest the fire * which awaiteth the wicked? * Arise, and cry aloud, * calling upon her who alone is quick to help: * O Virgin Mother, * entreat thy Son and our God,  to deliver me from the snares of the deceiver!

Stavrotheotokion: The ewe-lamb, as she beheld the Lamb * stretched out of His own will upon the Tree of the Cross, * cried out maternally, * in pain with her weeping: * O my Son, what is this strange sight? * O Longsuffering One, how is it that Thou art slain, * Who, as Lord, bestoweth life upon all, * granting resurrection to mortals?  I glorify Thy great condescension, O my God!

Troparion of the holy fathers, in Tone IV:

O God of our fathers, * ever deal with us according to Thy meekness. * Take not Thy mercy from us, * but by the prayers of these saints  direct our life in peace.

AT MATINS ODE I

Canon of the venerable one, in Tone VIII

Irmos: Let us sing unto the Lord, * who led His people through the Red Sea: * for He alone hath gloriously been glorified.

Ever do we praise thee, O blessed father Timothy, thou noetic star shining forth in the heights of abstinence, illumining the hearts of the faithful.

Having the upright eye of thy mind directed towards God, thou didst shake off the sleep of despondency, O father, and wast a temple of the divine Spirit and a place of sanctification, O Timothy.

Protected against the wiles of the wicked one by thy humility, O father, thou didst pass over unharmed and ascend unto God, delighting continually in His glory, O blessed Timothy.

Theotokion: With hymns let us honor the Theotokos, the virginal maiden who, in a manner past all telling, without seed conceived in her womb God, the Creator of all, and truly gaveth birth unto Him in the flesh.

Canon of the holy hierarch, in Tone VII

Irmos: Let us chant unto God, * Who alone helped Moses * lead Israel out of Egypt, * for He hath been glorified.

With hymns let us praise the great Eustace, the summit of the fathers, who was invested with the grace of discourse.

Manifest as a zealot of the Faith, O venerable one, thou didst preserve the Church of Christ unencumbered by capture through thy struggle against heresy.

As the mouth of the Word, thou didst pour forth an abyss of doctrine, O venerable one, wherein thou didst drown the impiety of Arius.

Theotokion: As thou hast given birth in the flesh unto the Word, the Origin of life, at the word of the archangel, beseech Him unceasingly, that our souls be saved.

ODE III

Canon of the venerable one

Irmos: O Savior Thou art my confirmation, * my refuge and power *; do Thou establish my wavering heart * in the fear of Thee, * for none is as holy as Thee, O our God.

In having compassion upon all in thine almsgiving, thou wast another Abraham, receiving those who came to thee from all places, O Timothy, thereby pleasing the God of all.

Thou didst mortify thy members on earth, as the Apostle Paul instructeth, O father; and thou wast shown to be a partaker of the life of heaven, wherein do thou ever remember those who honor thee.

The sun of the orient of thy works was never-setting, O father, ever illumining the ends of the earth with the rays of thy struggles, and driving away the darkness of the demons.

Theotokion: O holy Virgin, Mother of the King of kings, burst the bonds of my transgressions, and guide me to the paths of repentance by thy prayers.

Canon of the holy hierarch

Irmos: My heart hath been established in the Lord; * my horn hath been exalted in my God; * my mouth hath been enlarged over the enemy; * and I am gladdened in Thy salvation.

Drawing the sword of truth, thou wast shown to be the chief commander of piety, stabbing the opponents of the faith, O Eustace.

Having cultivated the Church with pangs of love, O blessed one, with the scythe of thy doctrine thou didst cut down all the tares at the root.

When thou didst truly preside with glory at the Council as senior hierarch, O divinely blessed one, with the stones of thy words thou didst wound Arius, who is truly the origin of falsehood.

Theotokion: Thou wast born in a manner past telling, and hast appeared as was well-pleasing unto Thee, O our Savior; and Thou hast renewed the world, O Lord.

Sessional Hymn of the venerable one, in Tone VIII, Spec. Mel.: "Of the Wisdom ...":

Having learned the Word, Who for our sake was born of the Virgin without corruption, thou didst preach His divinity to the godless, and didst lead many to God through faith by many manifestations of sacred miracles. Wherefore, O God-bearer, celebrating thy holy memory we illumine our souls with thy grace and cry out to thee together: O God-bearing Timothy, entreat Christ God to grant forgiveness of sins unto those who honor thy holy memory with love!

Glory ..., Sessional Hymn of the holy hierarch, in Tone III, Spec. Mel.: "Awed by the beauty of thy virginity ...":

Thou didst preach the Word, Who is consubstantial with the Father and the Spirit, O father Eustace, and didst soundly strangle with the cords of thy teachings the mindless Arius, who blasphemed against sound doctrine. Wherefore, rejoicing, thou hast joined the choirs of the fathers, the godly teachers. With them do thou remember us.

Both now ..., Theotokion, in Tone III:

As an uncultivated vine, O Virgin, thou didst put forth a most comely Cluster, which poureth forth for us the wine of salvation to gladden the souls and bodies of all. Wherefore, blessing thee ever as the cause of good things, with the angel we cry out to thee: Rejoice, thou who art full of grace!

Stavrotheotokion: Thy pure Mother, who kneweth not wedlock, seeing Thee hanging dead upon the Cross, O Christ, lamenting maternally, said: "With what hath the iniquitous and thankless assembly of the Jews, which hath delighted in Thy many and great gifts, rewarded Thee, O my Son? I hymn Thy divine condescension!"

ODE IV

Canon of the venerable one

Irmos: From the overshadowed mountain, * from the only Theotokos, * the Prophet in divine vision * foresaw Thy coming in the flesh, O Word, * and with fear he glorified Thy power.

Made ever steadfast by thy prayers, O most glorious father Timothy, thou didst count the bows and arrows of the noetic foe to be like the darts of children.

Bowing down with love before the image of Christ's dispensation toward us, O divinely wise Timothy, thou didst endure trial of torments at the hands of those who rejected it.

Thou wast an unshakable pillar, never resting in thy ceaseless glorification of God; remaining a partaker of the beauties thereof, O Timothy.

Theotokion: Thou hast given birth on earth unto a new Child, Who was begotten without corruption from the Father before all ages, O pure Mother, thou restoration of Christians.

Canon of the holy hierarch

Irmos: Thy virtue O Lord hath covered the heavens, * and Thou hast filled all things with Thy praise. * Glory to Thy power, O Lover of mankind!

Gathering together weapons of the victory of faith, O father, thou didst fell the impious Arius with the darts of thy words.

When the splendor of thy words issued forth like lightning, O most wise Eustace, it utterly consumed the wicked belief of Arius.

With thy words didst thou set a fence about the Church as the vineyard of the Word, O most venerable one.

Theotokion: O pure Virgin, thou hast given birth in the flesh unto the beginningless Word, Who was before thee and Who, through thee in a manner beyond telling, became incarnate.

ODE V

Canon of the venerable one

Irmos: Disperse, O Word, the darkness from my soul, * O Christ God, the Light-Giver, * Having driven out the primordial darkness of the abyss, * grant unto me the light of Thy commandments, * that early in the morning I may glorify Thee.

Standing before the Trinity with a cleansed mind, O blessed father, and illumined with rays of splendor therefrom, do thou ever enlighten us who languish in darkness due to the passions of our souls.

Having adorned thy flesh with abstinence and thy soul with dispassion, O wise one, thou wast shown to be a favorite of the King of all, manifestly receiving gifts of miracles from Him, O Timothy.

The barren woman who drew nigh, asking thine aid, not with a deceitful mind, but with a pure heart, was revealed to be fertile by thy prayer, and cured of her barrenness; wherefore she hymneth Christ our God.

Theotokion: He that dwelleth in the highest, having made His abode in thy womb, rendered thee more spacious than the heavens, O Mary Theotokos. In that thou art good, O Bride of God, cease not to entreat Him on behalf of us all.

Canon of the holy hierarch

Irmos: My soul riseth unto Thee at dawn, O God, * for Thou art light, and Thy commandments * have become healing for Thy servants, * O Lover of mankind.

Thou hast dispelled the gloom of heresies and hast shone upon all the ends of the earth the rays of thy teachings, O blessed Eustace. (Twice)

Hedged round about by the swords of thy teachings, we who stand for the divine faith vanquish heresies.

Theotokion: Cease not to entreat God, Who was born of thee in the flesh, O Virgin, that thy servants be delivered from every evil circumstance.

ODE VI

Canon of the venerable one

Irmos: Cleanse me, O Savior, * for many are mine iniquities; * lead me up from the abyss of evils I pray Thee, * for unto Thee have I cried, * and Thou hast hearkened unto me, * O God of my salvation.

Preserving well the dignity of thy virginity throughout thy whole life, thou didst never look upon the face of a woman, utterly repelling the harm that results therefrom.

Thou didst make haste unto the noetic harbor without sinking beneath the waves of the pleasures, O all-blessed Timothy; for thou didst sail well by the force of lifebearing winds, O all-glorious one.

In accordance with the psalm, thou didst depart, living in the mountains and ever dwelling in the wilderness, O wise one, until thou didst enter into the heavenly city of God, O blessed Timothy.

Theotokion: He that sitteth upon the shoulders of the cherubim in His infirmity, dwelt finitely in thy womb in His flesh, but not in His divinity, hath issued forth from thee, saving me, O all-immaculate one.

Canon of the holy hierarch

Irmos: Jonah cried out from the belly of Hades: * Lead my life up from corruption! * And we cry aloud unto Thee: * O almighty Savior, have mercy on us!

With the wind of thy divinely inspired words didst thou calm the tempest of the heretical, guiding the Church to the harbor of piety, O most blessed one. (Twice)

Blameless in virtue, O venerable one, thou wast revealed to be glorious in word and life, O adornment of the Church of Christ.

Theotokion: Cease not to entreat our God Who was ineffably born of thee, O Theotokos, that we who hymn thee may be delivered from misfortunes, O pure Evervirgin.

Kontakion of the venerable one, in Tone IV: Spec. Mel.: "Thou hast appeared today ...":

Shining forth from the east like a most radiant star, * thou hast shone the virtues of thy wonders upon the hearts of the faithful,  O all-blessed wonderworker Timothy.

ODE VII

Canon of the venerable one

Irmos: By an angel didst Thou refresh the Children in the furnace * transforming the roaring flames to dew. * O God of our fathers, blessed art Thou.

Having quenched the flame of the passions with the dew of thy tears, thou didst pour forth the grace of miracles, cleansing the defilement of our passions, O Timothy.

Truly hast thou received divine blessedness, and inherited the land of the meek, O venerable one, delighting in the joy of the elect.

As thou hast acquired boldness, O blessed one, ask thou forgiveness of sins for those who celebrate the memory of thy repose with love.

Theotokion: All we that have been delivered from the primal curse by thy most holy birthgiving bless thee, O undefiled Theotokos, who alone art blessed.

Canon of the holy hierarch

Irmos: In the Chaldean furnace, * the children of Abraham joined chorus with the Angel, saying: * Blessed art Thou, O God of our fathers!

Having won the battle against the heretical with the sword of the Spirit, and crowned by Christ, thou hast received unfading honors.

Thy mouth hath been shown to be a two-edged sword wielded against the impious, by the hand of the Word, O father, for it cut them down in battle.

With the winnowing fan of thy teaching thou hast hurled away like chaff the errors of Arius, gathering the grain of faith into the granary of life, O father.

Theotokion: We all honor the Theotokos, in that she hath given birth to the Savior, and we cry out with faith: Rejoice, O handmaid and Mother of Christ our God!

ODE VIII

Canon of the venerable one

Irmos: O Thou who dost cover Thy chambers on high with the waters, * Thou Who hast set the sands to bound the sea * and Who upholdest all things: * the sun doth sing Thy praises, * the moon giveth Thee glory, * every creature offereth a hymn unto Thee, * as their Fashioner, throughout the ages.

Thou wast a slayer of the passions through great abstinence and the tremendous pangs of standing at vigil, O venerable one, ever teaching the virtues to the hearts of mortals by thy spiritual ascents, mounting from glory to the glory of life unending, and incorruption.

O venerable one, from the depths of thy soul thou didst offer thy pure prayers unto the most pure God as a sacrifice, and from Him didst thou receive the divine gift of working miracles, expelling demons and healing men's infirmities.

A hater of evil, guileless, merciful and meek, adorned with righteousness, O father, thou wast venerable and blameless, refraining from every injustice, a pillar for monastics. Wherefore, we, the faithful, honor thee throughout all ages.

Theotokion: The Word of the Father chose thee alone, the beauty of Jacob, and made His abode in thy womb as was His good pleasure; He that is more comely than all mankind passed through thee, cleansing our darkened nature, O all-pure one.

Canon of the holy hierarch

Irmos: The King of glory, who is alone without beginning, * Before Whom all the powers of heaven stand in awe * and the hosts of angels tremble: * O ye priests praise and ye people * supremely exalt Him throughout the ages.

Having parted the divine depths of the Scriptures with the staff of thy wisdom, O holy hierarch of Christ, thou didst lead the new Israel over to the land of Orthodoxy; but the Arians thou didst drown like the Egyptians.

Descending from the vision of heaven upon the Arian tower of Babel, thou didst confuse the tongues of the heretical, O wise Eustace, preaching the unanimous faith throughout the ages.

With thy confession of the truth didst thou end thy life in the West, yet thou didst shine forth upon thy flock in the East, emitting the splendor of piety forever, O wise one.

Theotokion: Him that created Adam in His image, Who came forth from his nature and saved the race of mankind, hymn, O ye priests, and exalt Him, O people, throughout the ages!

ODE IX

Canon of the venerable one

Irmos: Blessed be the Lord God of Israel, * Who hath exalted the horn of salvation on our behalf * in the house of His child David, * wherein the Dayspring from on high hath visited us, * and guided us on the path of peace.

Thou hast been revealed to be; A temple of sanctity, a wellspring of compunction, a stream of compassion, an unfathomable abyss of love, a true favorite of the Lord, a citizen of heaven, a kinsman of angels and a torrent of miracles, O most wise one.

Knowing the Judge to delight in mercy, O father, thou didst not spurn the stranger; but, good to all, thou didst open the purse of thine alms, O venerable one, becoming a father to the orphaned, a defender of widows, the vesture of the naked and the food of the hungry.

Thou didst leave earth for the heavens, where, whilst yet walking well in the flesh, thou didst live thy life, O venerable one, praying that we who faithfully honor thy holy memory be granted cleansing of our sins.

Thy precious shrine ever poureth forth upon us a torrent of healings, O father, drying up the outpourings of all the passions, and watering every soul, bringing it to fruitfulness, O sacred Timothy, favorite of Christ.

Theotokion: Following thy words, all generations call thee blessed, O blessed one; for thou, O most holy and pure one, didst give birth unto Him Who is truly blessed, Who hath truly fashioned all the blessed to serve Him.

Canon of the holy hierarch

Irmos: O ye faithful, with hymns let us magnify the Theotokos, * who in a manner transcending nature became a mother, * and is a Virgin by nature, * she alone is blessed among women!

Squeezing the grapes of the Scriptures in the press of thy teaching, thou hast given the faithful to drink of the wine of the truth of Christ, which maketh our hearts glad, O father.

Wielding thy tongue of theology as a two-edged sword, thou hast felled the wicked rage of Arius, which sheddeth the blood of innocent souls, O blessed one.

Spiritually celebrating the appointed and holy day of thy most holy memory, we beseech thee: Earnestly pray, O holy hierarch, that we be saved.

Theotokion: We magnify the true and most pure Theotokos, who in her womb conceived the uncircumscribable Word, and hath been revealed to be the Mother of Life.

AT LITURGY

Troparion of the saints, in Tone IV:

O God of our fathers, * ever deal with us according to Thy meekness. * Take not Thy mercy from us, * but by the prayers of these saints  direct our life in peace.

Kontakion of venerable father Timothy, in Tone IV:

Shining forth from the east like a most radiant star, * thou hast shone the virtues of thy wonders upon the hearts of the faithful,  O all-blessed wonderworker Timothy.
